installing jekyll

First problem

Originally had difficulty directly installing jekyll from the command line bc of write permission errors.

- tried to problem solve by manually changing write permissions
  - worked at first but then ran into other issues
  - had to download one thing and then maybe something else

Second problem

Need to update ruby to a specific version

- had to install homebrew
- had to install rbenv
- need to install ruby-build -> apparently it was already installed
- installed ruby version 3.2.5
  - having trouble installing jekyll using the newly installed ruby version
  - it is still using the older ruby version, idk why
  - it seemed I just had to be patient and wait (something that is nearly impossible for me)
    - * but it worked and I was successfully able to download jekyll
